The Cartographers' Guild is a forum created by and for map makers and aficionados, a place where every aspect of cartography can be admired, examined, learned, and discussed. Our membership consists of professional designers and artists, hobbyists, and amateurs—all are welcome to join and participate in the quest for cartographic skill and knowledge. Although we specialize in maps of fictional realms, as commonly used in both novels and games (both tabletop and role-playing), many Guild members are also proficient in historical and contemporary maps. Likewise, we specialize in computer-assisted cartography (such as with GIMP, Adobe apps, Campaign Cartographer, Dundjinni, etc.), although many members here also have interest in maps drafted by hand. If this is your first visit, be sure to check out the FAQ. You will have to register before you can post or view full size images in the forums. Thank you for taking the time to review my map! I would love to hear what you think of it. We could start with the loots comparison, although that one is pretty obvious. The different weights of the colors and the map size have been done purposely in order to make the comparison more clear. As for the rest, we can make the appropriate changes. I think you brought up some good ideas and also some good suggestions. I'll add them to my list of things to check out.

Thank you, it was a very helpful input! Hopefully we will have some more success then. It is odd. I have not noticed this problem before. However, the new map is a much higher resolution than your other cartography. So, I was going to suggest that a higher res is probably behind the problem, but I am not sure. I do know that when I first installed GIMP, I noticed that I had to check to see whether my file was a
